About IS-BAO

The International Business Aviation Council (IBAC) introduced the IS-BAO program in 2002 to foster standardized, safe and highly professional aircraft operations. IS-BAO — International Standard for Business Aircraft Operations — is a code of best practice that has been accepted by aviation flight departments worldwide as the benchmark for safety and efficiency in business aircraft operations. More than 400 companies worldwide have acquired IS-BAO as the definitive international standard for flight operations.

IS-BAO was developed by the business aviation industry for the benefit of all corporate and private operators. It is a code of best practices based on the ICAO International Standards and Recommended Practices and designed to help business aviation operational departments worldwide achieve a high level of safety and professionalism. It follows the principles of ISO-9000 (the international quality standards series), and has an operator safety management system (SMS) as its cornerstone.

IS-BAO is an industry code of practice that challenges flight departments to review their current systems, programs and procedures, recognize strengths and weaknesses in those procedures, and upgrade to a higher standard. The IS-BAO contains a set of performance-based standards and guidance material that helps business aircraft operators develop or upgrade their safety management system, management structure, training programs, operating procedures, operating manuals, and more.

Flight Departments and charter operators implementing IS-BAO may wish to obtain a Certificate of Registration from IBAC, thus demonstrating compliance to a recognized international standard. Certificates of Registration are issued by IBAC to flight departments that have demonstrated compliance through successful completion of a third party industry audit by an IBAC Accredited Auditor. The Certificate of Registration is valid for two years.
